Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-9, drawn a signal processing method;
 - II. Claims 10-19 and 24-35, drawn to a detector that averages a sensor's output, the degree of averaging being a function of the change in signal.
 - III. Claims 20-23 and 36-38, drawn to a computer program product which detects how to change the sampling rate.
2. Inventions I and II are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus, specifically one requiring means for establishing first and second sampling rates and degrees of smoothing.
3. Inventions II and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because "altering a sample rate parameter" is not required in invention II. The subcombination has separate utility such as conventional noise signal sampling.

4. Inventions I and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the process as claimed can be practiced using another materially different program product, specifically one requiring first and second sampling rates and degrees of smoothing.

5. Invention II contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

I. The species best illustrated by "averaging a sensor's output, the degree of averaging being a function of the change in signal.

II. The species best illustrated by altering both the sample rate and the number of samples including a timer.

Should Applicant elect invention II, Applicant should elect either species I or species II.
